

Greetings,

Are you looking for new ways to support the organic farming community? Would you like to help promote the importance of fresh, organic food? Then consider a donation of food or produce to the seven-state, 40th Annual Northeast Organic Farming Association 2014 Summer Conference. From August 8-10th, roughly 1,600 people will gather at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst to learn about and celebrate organic food, farming, gardening, cooking, food preservation and landscaping.

Many sponsors, exhibitors, and advertisers will join the celebration while marketing their products! Your brand and donated product will reach consumers from New York, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Vermont, New Hampshire, Connecticut, Maine, Massachusetts and other states. Donated food is used throughout the conference and will be acknowledged in our program book.

For over forty years, the Northeast Organic Farming Association (NOFA) has been the leading force of education on organic growing and gardening in the Northeast. From farmers to gardeners, landscapers to consumers, and business owners concerned with the environment, our health and our economy – NOFA touches hundreds of thousands of lives every day.

NOFA is a seasoned and dynamic organization with a long history, a 501-C3 non-profit with over 5,400 members, working in diverse ways for the development of organic agriculture and a sustainable future. Donations of food and produce to the conference will help defray costs, providing needed revenue to advocate for and educate about organic growing and sustainable living.

Ready to donate today? Then call 413-695-5968 or email me at hannah@nofamass.org with the following information: 1) Item(s) you are donating 2) Total price of item(s) 3) Specify delivery date or if the item needs to be picked up directly from your location.

If you need any further information regarding our event, feel free to check out our website and read more about the conference at www.nofasummerconference.org.

Thank you very much for your consideration, your commitment to organic growing and eating and to the brighter future we all work to create. We hope to hear from you and help make arrangements for receiving your product. Please submit your information and contact me by July 30th, 2013.

Sincerely,

Hannah Jacobson-Hardy
